Wellness Programs

For individuals age 60 or older

Each center for healthy aging offers an array of wellness programs including Tai Chi, Healthy Steps in Motion, Zumba Gold, and Healthy Aging through Local Harvest. Various health screenings are also offered.

Healthy Steps in Motion is a program that offers exercise routines to build strength (especially in the lower body), increase flexibility, and improve balance.

Tai Chi is a type of martial art very well known for its defense techniques and health benefits. Practicing tai chi is good for balance, bones, brains, and other things we risk losing as we age.

Zumba Gold builds cardiovascular health by challenging the heart and working the muscles of the hips, legs, and arms with dance moves.

Healthy Aging through Local Harvest is geared towards helping seniors live longer, healthier lives by preparing and eating fresh, healthy foods.

Congregate Meals

Meals are prepared with fresh ingredients every day and menus incorporate locally grown fruits and vegetables when seasonally available. These hot, nutritionally balanced meals are served in each of our centers for healthy aging Monday through Friday.
